THE KID WHO ASKS ADULTS WHAT NOBODY ASKS OUT LOUD

Alyce Chan is a New York stand-up from Vancouver and the comedian behind MOMCOM.

She started stand-up at 29, after moving to New York and working at a pharma ad agency. She paused during her first pregnancy and came back after her second, and rebuilt her act as MOMCOM. Her best-known series has her playing a small kid on a playground asking adults blunt questions.

“How much do you have in your 401(k)?”

From the playground series, as reported by NPR via WAMC, 23 Aug 2026

“I wanted them to feel seen, heard and know that they’re not alone.”
